GIRL HUNTED IN MURDER MYSTERY

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR INNER HARBOR WHARF

Building of Inner Wharf Starts Soon

Tibbets Pacific Company Is Successful Bidder For Wharf Construction

COST IS TO BE $64,779.00

Test Pile Driver Will Start Work At Site Within Few Days

With the awaiting of the contract for the construction of Wharf No. 2 on the Inner Harbor to the Tibbets Pacific Co. for $64,779 by the city council last night, another big step was taken in the development of the Richmond waterfront. The bid of the Tibbets Pacific Co. was the lowest of a number of bids which were submitted to the city council last week. The four lowest bids were referred to the harbor committee, city manager, city attorney and city engineer, after the opening of the bids last week.

According to a representative of the successful bidders, construction work will start at once, and operations will be in full swing within fourteen days. A pile driver will begin sinking test piles as soon as the contract has been signed.

Francis Betts Smith, who prepared the plans and specifications, stated that a saving between $2500 and $3000 will probably be made because only 8 instead of 10 trestle bents will be necessary. Some additional expense may however be involved if more than the original amount of creosoted piling is required.

In a statement made to the council by City Attorney D. J. Hall it was pointed out that negotiations had been made for the right of way and that an agreement would be ready for signature within a short time.

High School Bond Vote Is Canvassed

Richmond's high school board met with Deputy District Attorney James R. Hoy, in the Lincoln school yesterday at 1 o'clock for the purpose of canvassing the returns of the recent high school bond election. The meeting was held in compliance with the state law, which requires that the board meet within a certain number of days after the election to canvass the returns. William Mason, president of the board, presided.

CONVICT MAKES SECOND ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL

SAN RAFAEL, Oct. 13.—Another desperate attempt to escape by one of the six San Quentin convicts who killed a prison clerk and wounded a guard in a spectacular attempted flight from the penitentiary on August 19, was revealed today.

Discovery of the attempted jail break was discovered when Marin county authorities prepared to take the sextet of felons before Judge E. L. Butler in Superior court for sentence. The lock on the door of Cecil Wright's cell was jammed, apparently through violent manipulation with a steel instrument.

Only after experts working with an acetylene torch had cut through the bars of the cell door, was Wright removed, manacled and brought into court with his five companions.

All were convicted of second degree murder on October 9 in connection with the prison break. Branch O. Miller, prison shipping clerk, was slain during the melee. Judge Butler severely scored the jury which tried the case for failing to bring in a verdict of first degree murder, which would permit imposition of the death sentence. He sentenced the six to imprisonment for one year to life—the maximum penalty for murder in the second degree.

"I cannot understand the failure of the jury to find these six criminals guilty of murder in the first degree," said Butler in a formal statement. "If there ever was a crime committed in this State that required the administration of the death penalty, it was this."

The convicted men are: Robert G. Scott and Cecil Wright, naval prisoners, serving 15 years for robbery; Henry Benz, mutiny; Joseph Summers, serving 10 years for robbery; Henry Benz, 10 years for robbery; Mike Wagtleich, 10 years for robbery; Paul Lucas, 10 years for grand larceny.

PLANS TO BE CHANGED FOR LEGION SHOW

Plans for the American Legion show to be presented here on November 2 to 14 to raise funds for the American Legion Endowment fund will be rearranged in such a manner that the show will come within the city ordinance covering matters of that nature. This was the opinion of a committee from the legion which appeared before the city council last night to request that the license fee of $150 per day for shows of that nature be waived.

It was pointed out by City Attorney D. J. Hall that it would not be possible within the law to waive this license fee but that if the entire net proceeds of the function were to be devoted to a charitable purpose the securing of a permit would not be necessary.

Funds which are to be derived from the show will go to help make up Richmond's quota of $2,000 for the National Legion endowment fund for widows of orphans of veterans.

J. H. Fitzpatrick who appeared before the council in the interest of the Legion stated that the legion did not feel that this was an opportune time to raise the local quota by subscription. He pointed out that an extensive investigation had been made by the show committee into the qualities of the show to be presented here and that no objectionable feature existed in the performances. A committee will inspect the show on the first day and subject to the approval of this committee the show will be permitted to continue for the remainder of the week.

MACDONALDAVE. PAVING WILL BE FINISHED SOON

Another direct artery to the outside world, especially the motoring public, will be opened into Richmond within another month, according to E. A. Hoffman, city engineer, who stated yesterday that the paving of Macdonald avenue will be completed in about that time.

Work is now progressing on the intersection at Twenty-third and Macdonald, and this portion should be completed within about seven days weather permitting.

On the other portion of Macdonald avenue from Twenty-third to San Pablo avenue, the entire base has been laid. According to officials of the Northern Paving company, which is laying the pavement, a record was established when nearly a million feet of the base was laid in five weeks.

Work is to start immediately on pouring the surface and weather permitting the street will be open for traffic by this time next month.

STREET PAVING TO BE OF MORE PERMANENT TYPE

Upon its own recommendation the street committee of the city council was last night instructed by the city council to make a close study of the various types of improved streets in use in the city and report their findings and recommendations to the city council in the near future. It was pointed out by City Engineer E. A. Hoffman that the light oil macadam streets were draining the funds of the street department for maintenance.

In a discussion held by the council it was the general opinion that a more substantial pavement than light oil macadam should be used in paving streets in new subdivisions.

The discussion arose from a request for the paving of Mariposa, Rheem Dunn and Lowell Avenue with oil macadam.

According to opinions expressed by councilman E. J. Garrard these streets which will in the near future carry a great deal of traffic under which oil macadam would not stand up.

The Richmond police court handled 773 cases during the month of September. Forty six fines were paid totalling $919.50 while bail was forfeited in the amount of $99.00 during the same period. The above figures were filed in a report submitted to the city council last night by Police Judge C. A. O'Dell.

Kidnaping Is Suspected In Curious Case

Murder, Robbery Kidnaping Suspected by Northern Police

GIRL AND MAN ARE MISSING

Mother Believes Girl Is Being Held Prisoner By Murderer

EUREKA Oct. 13.—Humboldt county's mountainous wilderness around Fort Baker held a baffling mystery today, with robbery, murder and kidnaping all suspected by authorities. Henry Sweet, twenty-one-year-old Dyerville youth, lies dead in the morgue, a rifle bullet through his back.

Carmen Wagner, eighteen years old, pretty hair dresser of Ferndale, who accompanied him on the fatal deer hunting trip, has been missing since Sunday, when young Sweet's dead body was found beside his automobile in the isolated spot. Her vanity box, a bow ribbon and her comb were found in the slain man's car.

A third member of the hunting party, an unidentified man known to have started out with them when they left a Eureka garage last Friday is also missing. Sweet carried a large roll of money which was not found on the body.

Mrs. J. A. Wagner of this city, distraught mother of the missing girl, believes that young Sweet was slain by the unidentified man, who then forced Carmen to accompany him into the mountains where he is holding her prisoner.

When Sweet's body was first found it was thought that death was due to natural causes, a hemorrhage, and that the young girl had hurried away to summon help and probably become lost.

A coroner's examination today, however, showed that Sweet had been shot in the back at close range. The rifle bullet penetrated the lungs. The course was such that it could not have been self-inflicted, asserted the coroner.

The comb in the car hinted at a struggle, asserted the sheriff. He said it was unreasonable to suppose that she would willingly abandon such belongings as her vanity box and hair ribbon.

Additional Cases Of Smallpox are Reported Here

There are now five cases of smallpox in Roosevelt Junior High school, three new cases having broken out within the last twenty-four hours, and school officials and health authorities are redoubling their efforts to check the disease. Dr. C. R. Blake, commissioner of health, stated last night.

Dr. Blake stated that he examined nearly a thousand students of the school yesterday and only about one third of them had ever been vaccinated. The other two thirds were sent home until such a time as they have been protected by vaccination or the danger of the disease is past.

A clinic will be maintained at the Richmond Health center each morning at 9 o'clock for children who cannot afford to pay. Dr. Blake announced.

An order was issued by Scout Commissioner G. P. Glinberg yesterday calling off all Boy Scout meetings while the small pox epidemic continues in Richmond. Glinberg said that the Scouts will aid civic authorities in combating the disease and will prevent as many public gatherings as possible.

INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. Laura Lane, 124 Mancilla avenue, Point Richmond, was taken to the Cottage hospital yesterday suffering from injuries sustained in a fall at her home. Her physician announced last night that Mrs. Lane will be able to be about again within a few days.

ALL MUST PAY TAXES

No citizen can escape the payment of taxes, whether he pays directly to the tax collector or not, according to Senator Guy D. Goff, of West Virginia, in an interesting article in the current number of the National Republic on the subject "Taxes, Revenue and Prosperity."

"Let us face the matter squarely," says Senator Goff. "Everybody pays taxes. Every sale carries the burden of the tax on to the consumer. Every dollar added to our taxes is a dollar added to the cost of living. Every dollar subtracted from our taxes means a lower cost of living. Reasonable taxation means reasonable government. Excessive taxation means excessive government. Excessive taxation will tax business out of business and labor out of a job."

"No matter who pays the taxes directly to the tax collector, everyone pays his share indirectly, whether he owns taxable property or whether he merely earns wages or a salary."

"A study of history uniformly discloses that a high surtax rate produces a small revenue. High taxes on the rich and well-to-do always, yes, invariably, put burdens on the poor, and handicap them in their progress toward a better economic position. High taxes drive capital into tax exempt securities, and not only dry up capital at its source, but deprive healthy and legitimate enterprises of the capital necessary to sustain them and insure their progressive development. Taxation, of necessity, must produce sufficient revenue to run the government. The government in return should efficiently strive always to lessen the burden of taxation, and thereby remove every influence which retards the steady development of business and industry."

VERBOTEN

Before, and during the World war, we heard much of the doctrine of "verboten" under which the German people lived, and doubtless many got the impression—which was of course false—that practically everything was "verboten" or forbidden, either by law or police regulation. It is certain, however, that the people were subject to a regimentation which we had been taught to believe was—and which was—inconsistent with liberty as we understood it.

Yet today our laws are mostly—certainly very largely—inhibitions. The aim of legislators seems to be to tell the people what they may not or must not do. We are subject to all sorts of regulation at the hands of government, state or national. Always there must be a statute. If the constitution stands in the way we at once start a campaign to amend the constitution to increase the power of government to regulate, control, and forbid. We seem to have taken for our model Peter the Great, who used to regulate the length of men's beards, and whose "care" for his people was both "infinite and infinitesimal."—Indianapolis News.

Perhaps Not Comfortable But Emulnently Smart Are the New High Collars.

AFTER all has been done and all has been said about the new autumn clothes, there doesn't seem to be so very much that is new or different.

Observers seem to differ in their summing of the new things, but they all stress one thing, and that is the high neck line. You may not like it—if you are an American you probably do not—but the fact is that French fashions are most assuredly getting back to the high collar. You may not like to wear it, you may personally find it very unbecoming but after you have seen all the new high-collared frocks and blouses and jumpers you will probably admit that there is something very smart about it. We Americans, they say, ask first whether a frock is becoming; the French woman asks whether it is smart. Becomingness is of secondary importance. Perhaps that is why the high collar has been adopted so much more generally in France than in this country.

New and truly smart in appearance are the high-necked jumpers worn with tailored coats or jackets having the conventional coat collar. We had become so accustomed to the sight of a coat collar resting directly against a bare neck that we had forgotten how much smarter is the effect of a high collar worn beneath. Even with the frocks that are collarless there is a tendency now to make them fit closely at the back of the neck. Little by little the comfortable old bateau neck line that was low at the sides and back as well as at the front is passing off the stage of fashion.

The sketch shows one of the interesting varieties of the new high collar. At the top of the sketch is the collar of a blue cloth frock. It is faced with cloth of gold and fastened with a gold button. There is a bow of metal ribbon at the front of the bodice. To the right of this is a high collar on a velvet frock. It buttons at the right side and is edged with fine fur. To the left and a little below you may see the way in which a scarf of beige chiffon is worn with a collarless frock of brown velvet. Directly below this the collar on a sleeveless lace dinner frock. The collar shows high points behind each twenty-years ago. A wonderful flared collar is shown to the right—on a black velvet coat—faced with rose-colored satin. At the bottom left of the group is a scarf collar seen on a new plaid frock, and, to the right, is a high collar edged with metallic braid and filled in with white satin.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

By MARY MARSHALL

CHOOSING YOUR COLOR SCHEME

Black and gold, for hats or frocks is spoken of as sure to be extremely smart with the coming on of winter. A light gray in which there is some beige combines well with bois de rose or rosewood and these two shades will be used together quite a bit.

The various wine tones, burgundy, claret and Black Prince, which is ranked among the wine tones, though it is taken from a dark red rose much admired in France—all these reddish purplish tones are used extensively now with gold. Hats of these colors, trimmed with gilded ostrich or gilded kid and frocks of deep wine tone are trimmed with pipings of gold or gold kid ornaments.

Parchment is the name given to a shade of light yellowish tan that is coming to be one of the favorite neutral tones, in place of the conventional beige or flesh.

Petunia is a shade that French women are wearing a good deal at the present time, and the smart thing to do is to wear with it nude stockings, but very thin stockings of petunia.

Among the many wine shades that have become very fashionable here and abroad are mentioned "le de vin"—in plain English, "wine lees." Bois de rose is a reddish brown tone, much spoken of now, which simply means rosewood, and another that is sometimes spoken of is "acajou"—the French for mahogany. In spite of its great popularity last spring and summer, deep purple still remains its own. The shade known as "eveque" or bishop purple is still a favorite. Usually this is worn alone—that is, there is no effect to combine it with another shade. But Poiret among French dressmakers trims it sometimes with turquoise blue and sometimes with red.

RICHARDSON HAVE SON

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Robinson, of Selby, at the Richmond Maternity hospital yesterday afternoon.

Copyright, 1925, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.
"THE WIFE WHO WASN'T WANTED" with Irene Rich is a picture-ization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Eileen Mannering, wife of the district attorney, is present in a notorious inn when it is raided and is seen by the newspaper reporters. Meanwhile, the report is circulated that her husband is about to withdraw from the race for re-election. Their son, Bob, is accused of having caused a woman's death in a motor car smash and his father considers it his duty, as long as he is in office, to prosecute him. This nearly causes an estrangement between husband and wife.

It was as a reviving tonic to her after all of those horrors. Herself once more, she instantly remembered Bob and turned frantically upon Simmie.

"The paper! Give me that paper!" she gasped, clutching at him. But eluding her, Simmie rushed away into the shadows. Away to where the thoughtful Slick had a taxi waiting that they might speed back to Wallace, and during a pleasant journey he might congratulate himself upon the successful outcome of his masterly strategy and share with Simmie the just rewards of so notable a project.

Duped, deserted, alone in the darkness of that unfamiliar spot, Eileen was almost beside herself as she realized her plight. Had she been upheld merely by thoughts of self she might have swooned, surrendering helplessly to her woes. But now, the remembrance of Bob, the mighty stimulus of mother love, buoyed her up, and that hope which springs eternal in the human breast thrust back her secret

He hoped to shut out a horrid vision. Wallace was an honest man, who would be no party to so despicable a trick. It was a mistake. It must be a mistake of his too zealous assistants. Could she but get to Wallace all would be well.

Moved by this thought, she started along the road, half running and stumbling blindly in the gloom. Careless of direction and heedless of her surroundings, she was soon breathless, footsore and aching in every muscle. Yet, in the glory of her martyrdom, uplifted by the divine miracle of mother love, she drove her delicately nurtured body to ever greater effort.

Then all in a moment a blinding light enveloped her as might the heavenly fire, some saint. Brakes squealed, and a gruff masculine voice was raised indignantly, to quickly die as she limped forlornly towards him.

With a great gasp of relief, Eileen recognized that it was a taxicab. A taxi which would bear her swift as the wind out of this nightmare of horrors. Fear her wearied limbs and her bruised feet to the soothing solace of a bath, her tired body to the grateful comfort of a soft bed. Ah, never had home seemed more delightful, more inviting.

But at the thought of Bob she steeled her yielding spirits. As she sank, with a sigh that was almost a sob, into the soft cushions of the taxicab, it was Wallace's address she gave the driver.

CHAPTER XI

John Mannering sat alone in his office at the County Court House, while without the shadows of midnight enshrouded the city. He sat at the desk of the District Attorney, in a seat to which he had been called by a vote of his fellow citizens and which he had graced with honor and distinction. Yet there was no pride in his bearing. Rather, as he sat there under the glare of the electric lights was it that of a man unutterably weary by intense feeling. But of a strong man, unbroken, who, having for a time trodden the path of indecision, has finally chosen the road he proposes to follow regardless of any obstacle.

With a sigh he straightened himself in his chair and made a movement as if to arise when the telephone held him. He drew the instrument towards him, and as he placed the receiver to his ear the voice of Dryden, managing editor of the Star, reached him.

"But, Mannering, you can't withdraw at this late hour—it's impossible."

Was he about to return to the fray? No. His tones rang clear. "There has been a raid at Calkin's Inn, Mannering. The Chronicle was tipped off. They say your wife was there with some man."

A look of incredulity spread over John's face. Imagine Eileen at a roadhouse. He smiled at the thought. Imagine her there with another man. His Eileen—impossible! He laughed aloud at the thought.

"Nonsense, perfect nonsense," he scoffed over the phone.

There was a note of apology in Dryden's voice, but years of newspaper work had hardened him.

For a few moments he sat there, staring straight ahead. Then he reached for the receiver, without his hand, reached again and hesitated. Finally he calmly unhooked the receiver and called his home. Moments passed, moments that seemed interminable, and he fell to drumming nervously upon his desk. At last a voice answered. It was that of Mary.

"Ah, Mary, do you suppose you could get Mrs. Mannering to the phone without startling her?"

"Oh, don't you know where she is, sir? Mrs. Mannering is not home. Oh, sir, she has not been home tonight."

Ashen white, John hung up the receiver and sank back into his chair. It was as if he had been struck a blow. But in an instant he straightened up. Eileen, it was impossible. And Dryden's message—the rumor? Ah, but his years with her, his knowledge of her, branded the thing as a lie, a damnable black lie for which some one should pay. But she was not home? A mistake, a circumstance for which there was a proper explanation. She had never—

Again the telephone sounded. Its very shrillness seemed portentous. This time it was an unfamiliar voice, a woman's voice, harsh and strained with feeling. It was Greta. "Would it interest you to know that your wife is visiting her lover, Jerome Wallace, at his apartment?" she said and was gone.

Dazed, but unbelieving, he replaced the receiver. Then, seemingly lifted to his feet by a wave of passion, he sprang up, and running blindly into a chair, he sent it crashing across the room.

"Eileen," he burst forth in hoarse tones. "God, Eileen!" and pressed his hands to his face, as though as he might shut out some horrid vision. Then suddenly he reached for his hat and made for the door, his face terrible in its intensity.

At Wallace's apartment Eileen waited, her face deathlike in its pallor. When the Japanese servant appeared she followed him mechanically but unfaithfully.

Wallace's reception of her was characteristic. Although startled at her coming, his manner was easy, that of a man most agreeably surprised.

"Eileen, this is indeed kind of you."

With her big eyes resting absently upon him she went directly to the point.

"That paper—I want that signed paper," she insisted.

"Didn't Jennings give it to you?"

"No; he kept putting me off, she cried wildly, and then with a flash of intuition, "as you are doing now."

"?" He seemed amazed at the suggestion.

"Yes," she insisted hysterically. "I've done my part—I've sold out the man I love. Now I want my reward—your signed promise to free my boy."

"There, there, Eileen," he said gently. "No harm has been done. It is all easily remedied. I have only to write you another."

GARAGE PERMIT LAID OVER FOR ONE WEEK

Upon the recommendation of the city planning commission, the request of Ward McKenna for a permit for the construction of a garage on Fourteenth street, between Macdonald and Bissell avenues, will be acted upon by the city council at next week's meeting.

The recommendation of the committee was to the effect that McKenna revise his plans so that the building for the garage would be on the same line with the apartment house which occupies the lots adjoining and that it be of a type and architecture which would add to the appearance of the neighborhood. McKenna must submit his correct plans to the city council at the next meeting.

According to the report submitted by the planning commission on businessmen in the district where the garage is to be built, were in favor of it. They held that the erection of the garage would in no way damage the value of the surrounding property.

Attorney Tsar N. Calfee, representing McKenna, stated that he felt McKenna would be glad to comply with any requests of the city council in the plans of the garage.

Mary Dorstewitz, owner of the apartment house on the site next to the contemplated garage, made a vigorous protest before the council against the erection of the garage, stating that it would lessen the value of her property.

ALPHA LODGE HOLDS BUSINESS MEETING

In the absence of W. J. Richards, master, who is attending the Masonic convention in San Francisco, William P. Self, junior warden, presided over the session of Alpha Lodge, No. 431, P. and A. M. in Masonic hall last night. The session was devoted to regular business.

Where It Started

SIXES AND SEVENS

There are many explanations of the origins of this expression. Some think it has to do with Job's troubles (Job v. 19), others connect it with six working days out of seven; the fact that six and seven are thirteen, and therefore unlucky, is offered as an explanation. In the old game of backgammon it was dangerous to leave single pieces exposed to throws of six or seven; the men might be said to be "at the mercy of" sixes and sevens.

SCULING RACES

The first officially recorded sculling match was held on the Chames, England, August 15, 1752; the race was from London, Bridge to Chelsea, and was won by John Hope. The race was continued, and is still held annually on the first of August. It honors the accession of George I.

Laurence Wheat, who was the Charley Paddock of those days, slickers Miss Bronson's father into a race in his horseless carriage, Wheat to run, cross-country fashion, in opposition. All is in readiness for the big race. The horseless carriage is steaming away perfectly. But where's the fireman? Lost! Kidnapped! Maybe the opposition has lured him away! So Miss Bronson got up behind the boiler and played fireman for father. More, more steam, more speed!

"Goodness, what a race!" said Miss Bronson after the day's filming was over. "I got real cinders in my eye, and burnt myself on the old steam jiggers, and, worst of all, my face was simply black."

And here's where the auto salesman part comes in! "Just think of the lovely, comfortable, cool auto-

Other features on the same program include "Call a Cop," a comedy riot of laughter; "Prizma" the screen magazine.

Concord School Principal Will Fight Charges

CONCORD, Oct. 13.—Clyde E. Akers, principal of the Concord grammar school, today declared allegations made against him at Sacramento, when a hearing was held by the State Board of Education, as a result of his name being linked with that of Mrs. Mary Ferguson of Riverside, were absolutely untrue. He announced his intention of making a determined fight against the attack on his character.

Akers also declared that although he will resign his position at Concord he intends to take immediate procedure toward re-instatement of his teacher's certificate. The charges against Akers, said to have been made by Riverside school officials, state that divorce court records mentioned his name in connection with that of Mrs. Ferguson.

Akers did not appear personally before the State Board, which revoked his two teacher's certificates last Friday, nor did he make any other appearance. He said the reason for this was that he did not have any knowledge of the action being taken against him, but only knew what was happening through items in the press. He said the attack was a secret one.

Akers declared that he did know Mrs. Ferguson, but only as a patron of his Riverside school, where her children were pupils. He did not know who filed the charges against him, he said.

Joseph Williams, Jr., trustee of the Concord school, said that Akers is a good teacher and an able executive. He came to Concord highly recommended by Riverside school authorities.

EDDIE MOORE
HERO OF SIXTH
SERIES GAME

By DAMON RUNYON
Universal Service Staff Correspondent
FORBES FIELD, PITTSBURGH, Oct. 13.—Here in Pittsburgh before the World's Series of 1925, murmurs and mutterings arose from his adopted baseball people for the head of Eddie Moore, the young substitute second baseman of the Pirates.

"Take 'im out," they said openly, as Eddie Moore failed time and time again in moments when failure was conspicuous and ignominious. "Put in Thompson," they said—Thompson being another youthful Pirate and playing second base.

It was Eddie Moore who broke up a 2-2 tie for the Pirates in the fifth inning by belting the ball into the crowd behind the fence in deep left field, not only winning this particular game, but putting Pittsburgh on even terms with Washington in the series.

Each club has now won three games. The seventh leaning on the arm of old Walter Johnson.

In addition to that home run smashup Eddie Moore scored another run. He was on the bases four consecutive times, once by a base on balls, once by error, and the other two times on hits. Moreover he played quite a little second base, behind the superb pitching of Ray Kremer.

Ray Kremer, a solid looking right hander, who comes from the Pacific Coast, pitched well against the Senators, holding them to six hits, but for seven innings Alex Ferguson the Jersey City man, once with the Yankees and the Red Sox, gave him a stiff battle.

Buck Harris, the young manager of the Washington club, demonstrated considerable breadth of character when he took himself out of the game in the eighth to let Bob Veach bat for him. Harris has been troubled throughout the series and has not been hitting. Veach did not do any better, at that.

The steadiness of the Pittsburgh infield was undoubtedly largely responsible for the Pirates' victory.

Junior Gridders
Cancel Benicia
Gridiron Game

"Football-like life, is just one thing after another," thus quoth George "Denny" Miner, mentor of the game at Roosevelt Junior high school.

First it was the mumps, striking when the men were at the peak of their going power. Then came the injuries, keeping the team out of a couple of games.

Now comes smallpox, with a capital S. Almost all of his army went under the needle yesterday to get a shot of toxin. They will be indisposed for a few days.

In view of this fact, Miner was forced to cancel his scheduled game with the Benicia high school 130-rodgers at Benicia next Saturday morning. Denny had a full schedule the first part of the season, but has been forced to cancel a number of games.

He has hopes, though, of once more bringing the team together after this latest blow and continue the season's schedule.

Birth Certificates
Filed With Board

Certificates of birth filed with the City Health department yesterday, show that within the past few days five girls and no boys were born in Richmond. The certificates follow:

October 8, to Mr. and Mrs. Sabino Corral, Engel Mines, a girl, named Aurora.

October 9, to Mr. and Mrs. William Kastanos, 208 South Forty-first street, a girl, named Christine.

October 9, to Mr. and Mrs. Pompilia Ciabattari, 517 Twentieth street, a girl, named Norma Lilia.

October 9, to Mr. and Mrs. William L. Armstrong, 1623 Roosevelt avenue, a girl, named Lois June.

October 9, to Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Allus, 22 Idaho street, a girl, named Elizabeth.

Contra Costa Now
13th in Population

MOTIONLESS
MOVIE SHOWS

Goose Goslin, sensational outfielder of the Senators, cracked out his third homer of the series yesterday establishing a new record for the coming generation to try for.

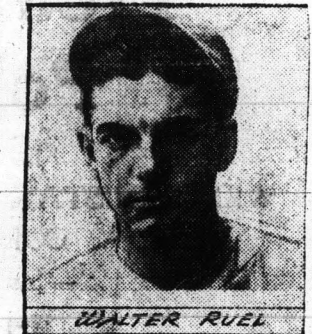

GOOSE GOSLIN

Glenn Wright, another star outfielder, combined efforts with Pie Traynor in yesterday's game of the series, to put a sudden stop to any rally the Senators tried to pull.

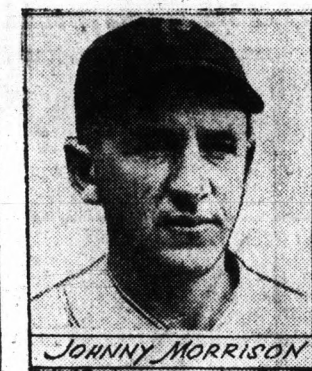

GLENN WRIGHT

Walter "Muddy" Ruel, catcher and feature writer for Bucky Harris' Senators, was put in to catch "Win" Ballau's slants yesterday in the eighth in an effort to stop the Pirates.

WALTER RUEL

Johnny Morrison, one of Pittsburgh's best relief pitchers, almost had the pleasant but infrequent sensation of game. The Pirate managers saw Kremer was right, though, so Johnny was out of luck.

Victory Wipes
Out Pessimism
At Stanford U

By WILLIAM LEISER
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

PALO ALTO, Calif., Oct. 13.—What was Glenn Warner?

The sustained pessimism which has surrounded Stanford football since the opening of the Pacific Coast season was partially lifted Saturday when the Cardinals, in four quarters of much improved and comparatively smooth football suggested that the development of real power may lie just around the corner. They defeated a light but fast and clever occidental college eleven, 25 to 0.

Trouble is, however, that the university of Southern California Trojans are just around the corner also, and their game against Warner's men scheduled at Los Angeles next Saturday is listed as the first major engagement of the 1925 coast conference season. Stanford may be caught while the foundation has been laid but yet while it is not sufficient, ly seasoned to hold up under the pressure of coach Howard Jones' new and reputedly powerful eleven. Naturally enough, in the first two games, the newer men clogged up the machinery. Fumbles, bad passes from center, poor timing of plays and other mis-cues smothered most of the Warner attack before it started. Saturday, however, his men put forth their first sustained effort, and indicated that after all Stanford may have a team in the making.

Fellowship Club
Dinner Is Held

A large number attended the Men's Fellowship Club dinner held last evening at the First Christian church. The crowd enjoyed the excellent program and dinner according to L. D. Widner. Rev. Thomas A. Boyer was the speaker of the evening. The rest of the program consisted of solos sung by Mrs. John Kimstrey, Miss Helen Morehouse and Miss Marguerite Knoble.

Sportographs

IMLAY STILL OUT

Tut Imlay, captain of the California Bears, has not fully recovered from an injury to his back received in the Santa Clara game, but will probably be seen in the St. Mary's game Saturday. Andy Smith announced yesterday, Imlay will probably not be used to start the game, but Smith hopes to have him in some plays of the contest.

SHOOTING GOOD

Eastbay shooters are expecting a banner period of sport this week with the ducks flocking to this region. Sprig were plentiful last week and a number of hunters reported bagging the limit. It is a little early for some birds, but if the storm keeps up they will all soon be dropping south. The mallards are still in the northern rice fields and hunters report that there is no sign of them coming south as yet.

SAINTS LOOK GOOD

A broad smile is playing over the face of Coach Slip Madigan. And there is just cause. Slip knows that after four years of waiting and working he has a real team, a well-balanced, heavy and fast varsity to throw into the field against the Golden Bear next Saturday. Slip is satisfied and when a coach is satisfied then it bodes the opposition to be on its toes and watch out for squalls and danger signals.

TWO GAMES IN SOUTH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—To avoid conflict with University of Southern California-Stanford game at the Coliseum Saturday, two of the three conference games in Southern California this week end will be played Friday. The southern branch of the University of California will entertain Whittier at Moore Field and Occidental will see what they can do with the University of Redlands at Patterson field.

CUBS HAVE NEW BOSS

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Joe McCarthy, with ambition and a pennant scalp dangling at his belt, will essay to revamp the Chicago Cubs, tail-enders in the National, next spring. He guided the Louisville Colonels to the American Association pennant this season. He has signed a contract for two years at $20,000 per.

OLYMPICS MAY MEET U. S. C.

Possibilities of a game between the Olympic club, winners over both California and Stanford, and the University of Southern California loomed larger than ever yesterday. Babe Hollingberry, leader of the clubmen, is hollering his head off for a game, saying that for two years a game has been sought. Now if arrangements can be made the clubmen will meet the southerners any time and any place they desire.
